

BERRY PRAISES "BILLY" SUNDAY; RAPS METHODS

Methodist Leader Denies He Denounced Tabernacle Evangelist

SCORES VULGAR DISPLAY

Stinging criticism of many of the methods of tabernacle evangelists copied after "Billy" Sunday campaigns and arising from his success, were made today by Bishop Joseph F. Berry, head of the Congress on Evangelism of the Methodist Church in this country.

Among the features of such campaigns which the Bishop mentioned as objectionable were the "knocking" of ministers during the early weeks of tabernacle campaigns, the "vulgar display of presents from the people, the wholly inadequate provision for instructing the converts and guiding them into a real heart experience of personal salvation."

NOT ATTACKING "BILLY"

At the same time the Bishop insisted that it be made plain that he was not attacking "Billy" Sunday personally, and had not attacked him in Minnesota, as had been reported in press dispatches published throughout the country. It was for the purpose of setting himself straight in respect to these dispatches that Bishop Berry consented to issue a public statement of his present attitude on tabernacle evangelism.

The Bishop declared his belief that the Sunday campaign, conducted in this city last winter, was of much value to the spiritual and civic improvement of this community, and that the "knocking" of ministers and the greatest reformer in the country, and that great good was bound to come to any part of the country in which he labored. But, he said, better results would come through a change of methods.

Regarding the news reports that the Bishop attacked Sunday, Bishop Berry said: "The press dispatch was a blundering effort. I made no attacks upon Mr. Sunday, and said none of the things they reported me to have said. I was delivering a series of addresses on 'Pastoral Evangelism' at the Minnesota Conference, and in one of them I deprecated the growing tendency to take away from the pastor his evangelistic leadership."

"I also expressed regret that there is a growing disposition to discount the church building as a center of evangelistic activity and to magnify the tabernacle or shed. I expressed my confidence in the sincerity and devotion of Mr. Sunday, and repeated that the usefulness of his work was modified by certain objectionable features which now seem to be inseparable from all this tabernacle evangelism."

"Of these features I specified the habit of evangelists, during the first weeks of their campaigns, of visiting ministers and churches, the reception in public and the vulgar display of presents from the people, and the wholly inadequate provision for instructing the converts and guiding them into a real heart experience of personal salvation."

In explanation of his feeling toward the commercialization of tabernacle evangelism, Bishop Berry continued: "I expressed sincere regret that this new method of tabernacle evangelism was being commercialized by many of its leaders, and cited some instances of this which were startling and deplorable."

Among the instances the Bishop said he had cited were those of an evangelist who had offered a minister $50 commission on each campaign he arranged in churches in his conference, of another who offered a minister 10 per cent. of his tabernacle thank offerings, and of the growing tendency of many men to become tabernacle evangelists rather than pastors of churches. He asserted that it was difficult to get young men to become regular ministers because of the commercial lure of evangelism, and that he believed there were enough evangelists at work of the tabernacle class, and the churches of his denomination would be far better off if no more of them became tabernacle preachers at this time.

"In the address referred to I criticized methods, not persons," he said. "The remarks of Mr. Sunday, and myself are the same as they have been for 25 years. He understands me perfectly, and it was really unnecessary for me to send him a letter, which I promptly wrote, disavowing the silly things which the sensational press dispatches made me say."

"Notwithstanding the discount, which is necessary because of the things I have mentioned, I regard Mr. Sunday as the mightiest force making for righteousness in the republic. He is a reformer more than an evangelist. His preaching against sin—personal, political, civic and national—has given us a moral tonic which we sorely needed. The community where he labors is vastly better for the goals of character and life which he holds aloft. The number of the 'converts' in his meetings is 'vastly overestimated, but the moral uplift which results from his sledge-hammer preaching is simply beyond any possibility of estimate."

Thieves Enter Garage and Take Auto BRISTOL, Pa., Oct. 13.—Entering his garage here, thieves stole the automobile of Raymond W. Wright. The thieves crawled through a window of the garage. A reward of $100 is offered for the return of the car. A year ago another car belonging to Mr. Wright was stolen from the garage in the same way and the thieves were overtaken after a chase through the county by the police.

EVA BOOTH BRINGS BACK FALLEN SALVATIONISTS

Army Commander Gets Many Converts When She Instructs Officers

Salvation Army officers received additional instructions and were urged to live lives that would appeal for Jesus by Commander Eva Booth this morning. Miss Booth presided at the opening session of the third day's activities of the 10th anniversary congress of the Atlantic coast province and devoted the early part of the meeting to a discussion of the work and lives of the soldiers and officers.

The commander, who is a daughter of the late General Booth, founder of the Army, is a believer in evangelistic efforts whenever possible, and last night she called for converts and there was a ready response. Almost 40 men and women answered the call, marching down the aisle in the Chambers-Wylie Memorial Presbyterian Church, where all sessions are being held, with heads bowed and tears streaming from many of their eyes.

Among the converts were several former soldiers, who had fallen by the way and were persuaded to come out and fight the good fight for the Master through the urgent call of Miss Booth.

Reports were private and occupied largely by reports and addresses by department heads on ways to improve the work.

DRAKE SEEKS PLACE ON JUDICIAL TICKET

Attacks Constitutionality of Nonpartisan Act—Huselton Contests Attorney General's Ruling

A test case affecting many election results was brought into the Dauphin County Court, at Harrisburg, today, by Frederick S. Drake, an attorney of this city, candidate in the recent primary election for Judge in Common Pleas District, No. 2. He attacked the constitutionality of the nonpartisan judicial act which governs the election of candidates for Judge in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Drake did not receive 50 per cent. of the votes necessary and, under Attorney General Brown's interpretation of the law, he is eliminated from the election. The ruling made by the Attorney General is attacked by Stephen H. Huselton, of Pittsburgh, Superior Court Judge candidate, who maintains Mr. Brown's opinion is not in accord with that of former Attorney General Bell and the late Judge Eakin.

Mr. Huselton wants all six candidates voted for at the primaries printed on the ticket for Superior Court Judge at the November elections. Deputy Attorney General Harzest and Keller looked after the State's side, and on motion of Mr. Harzest the court struck from the Huselton petition the names of the Attorney General and the Commonwealth, as they were used without consent, and attacked the Attorney General's own construction of the law. In court also were Jesse E. B. Cunningham, representing Judge Orlandy, and John G. Johnson, representing J. Henry Williams. G. W. Carr looked after Mr. Drake's interests. Mr. Huselton was present. A decision is expected within the next few days.

CROZIER WANTS U. S. TO ENLARGE ARSENAL

Ordnance Chief Recommends Purchase of Additional Ground at Frankford

Brigadier General Crozier, Chief of Ordnance, in his recommendations sent to the Secretary of the Treasury, today, urged an appropriation of $125,000 for the purchase of additional land adjoining Frankford Arsenal. The Government has been anxious to have more grounds at the Arsenal for years, but the price has been too high. The owners of the tract some years ago asked what was considered an extravagant price. This has been modified and last year the tract was offered at the price recommended by General Crozier.

It is the intention of the Government to make great improvements at Frankford, which will become the leading arsenal in the country, as the plant at Rockford, Ill., is too far from the base of supplies. Philadelphia is in the center of things and it will become in the next few years the biggest Government manufacturing plant in the United States.

ACCUSED AS SAFE ROBBERS

Police Nab Trio Suspected of Planning Second Raid Two men accused of rifling the safe in the store of Mrs. Becky Simon, 303 South Bodine street, October 4, are under arrest today with another, said by the police to be the man who hauled the strong box to a nearby stable. The first two were trapped last night by Detectives Dorie, Rich and Hess as they walked from the store of Jacob Strom, 74 South 5th street.

The alleged burglars are Morris Brick, of 603 Dudley street, and Morris Greenberg, of Ulster County, New York. The police learned they had come back to this city after fleeing to New York following the Simon robbery, in which they are said to have obtained $150 cash and $140 worth of jewelry. It was also learned, the police say, that the men intended to rob Strom's safe last night.

The detectives watched Brick and Greenberg enter the Strom store and caught them as they walked out. The other prisoner is Jacob Kopp, of 212 South 17th street. He was arrested at his home on the charge of carrying off the safe from the Simon store.

WILSON PREPARES WHITE HOUSE HOME FOR NEW MISTRESS

Workmen Busy on Decorations and New Furniture Arrives. Conference on Wedding Plans

MAY NAME DATE SOON WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.— Announcement of the date of the wedding of Mrs. Edith Galt and President Wilson is expected to be made within the next fortnight. Mrs. Galt, at a dinner party at her home last night, conferred with the President and Col. E. M. House, who, gossip asserts, will be best man at the wedding. The plans for the ceremony and honeymoon. Today it was intimated that the formal announcement of the selected wedding date will not much longer be withheld.

Meanwhile the White House is being decorated for the reception of its new mistress. Painters and decorators are hard at work on it and new furniture and accessories are being placed in the part reserved for the family. As a result, the White House has been temporarily closed to visitors.

Blue will be the predominating shade in the gowns of Mrs. Galt, according to her friends. That color sets off wonderfully her exceedingly clear complexion, and among the gowns that are being made for her are several shades of blue. It is also learned that most of her traveling gowns will be trimmed with seal fur.

Mrs. Galt personally has designed the majority of her costumes. In this she has followed her usual custom. Her tastes are exceedingly artistic, her friends say, and it is now becoming known that some of the unusual and attractive trophies which have been made at the jewelry establishment which is conducted by relatives but owned by her were constructed from designs suggested by her.

There has been no decrease in the number of letters and telegrams of congratulatory nature received by the President and his bride-to-be. They are coming by hundreds from every quarter of the globe, and a corps of stenographers has been set at work acknowledging them. In addition hundreds of letters of the begging type are being received.

OWEN OSBORNE WEDS

Prominent Hosiery Manufacturer of City Marries Miss Mary L. Shook in New York

Owen Osborne, a prominent hosiery manufacturer of this city, and member of the Union League and other clubs, was married in New York yesterday to Miss Mary Louise Shook, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David Z. Shook, of Green Castle, Pa. Mr. Osborne, who is president of the Osborne Hosiery Mills, 4th and Somerset streets, is a widower, his first wife having died six or eight years ago.

He left his place of business yesterday with Benjamin F. Jones, of the Provident Life and Trust Company, who acted as best man, went direct to New York and was married to Miss Shook in the Church of the Transfiguration a few hours later. The couple had an informal wedding breakfast at a hotel today and immediately departed for Honolulu, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Negro Attempts Murder and Suicide

Ernest and Addie Gould, negroes, of 104 Reno street, are in a hospital today seriously injured as the result of an attempt at murder and suicide made by the man, according to the police. Gould shot his wife in the cheek and breast and then put a bullet through his own chest. Three other shots he fired went wild. Special Policemen Ernest and Weckesser are investigating.

RESINOL SHAVING STICK

makes the daily shave a picnic

First, there's a good, healthy lather that doesn't fade away on the right side before the left is scraped. Then somehow the razor always seems just a little sharper when it's slipping through a lather of Resinol Shaving Stick.

But better still is the way it speeds up the shave by cutting out "soothing" applications and tedious steaming and soaking—your face simply doesn't need them, because the Resinol medication in the Stick makes tenderness, dryness and shaving rashes impossible.

Sold by all good druggists. For trial-size stick free, write to Dept. 5-M, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

GIRL-WIFE SWOONS IN COURT

Overcome When Husband Who Abused Her Is Sent to House of Correction

A pathetic scene, was witnessed in the 50th and Berks streets police station early today when a girl-wife, after testifying against her young husband and hearing him sentenced to three months in the House of Correction, staggered from the court and swooned in a dead faint in the arms of Policeman Miller and the matron. It was some minutes before she could be revived. She is Mrs. Louise Brooks, scarcely out of her teens, and a bride of slightly more than a year.

John G. Brooks, her husband, was arrested last night on a charge of disorderly conduct. The police say he threatened Mrs. Brooks at the home of her mother, on Montgomery avenue near 12th street. He was arraigned before Magistrate Morris today. Mrs. Brooks told of her married life and how her husband left her a few weeks after her baby had been born. Brooks, she said, was living at 104 North 19th street, and, although they were living apart, he annoyed and threatened her on several occasions, she said. He was formerly employed by the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company.

"Can you get on without him?" Magistrate Morris asked her. "If you can, I'll send him where he will not be able to annoy you."

When the sentence was imposed Mrs. Brooks thanked the Magistrate and collapsed.

KILLED WHEN HE GETS JOB

Teamster Crushed to Death as Trolley Crashes Into Wagon on First Trip

A negro driver of a dirt wagon was instantly killed today at York road and Aldrie street, when a trolley car demolished the wagon. The man is John Watkins, 41 years old, of 121 North 16th street. He attained his position this morning and was driving into the yard of the Galbraith Paving Company for his first job when a northbound trolley car collided with the wagon. The driver was crushed between the car and his wagon and died instantly. He was employed by Albert Young, a contractor, of York road above Butler street.

RICHMOND'S FOES SCORE IN TRIAL

Deposed Vestryman Testifies Rector Scorned Members of Girls' Friendly Society

The Rev. George Chalmers Richmond told members of the Girls' Friendly Society of St. John's Episcopal Church at a meeting in 1912 to "clear out," and accused them of associating with men of questionable character, according to the testimony today of Charles A. Brown, deposed vestryman, at the Richmond ecclesiastical trial.

This point was the only new evidence brought out by Mr. Brown, who has been on the witness stand for three days. Previous efforts to have him tell of alleged conversations with Mr. Richmond have been futile. The prosecution won a victory on that point today.

Mr. Brown testified that he asked Mr. Richmond in 1912 if he had not told members of the girls' society that they were "girls of the streets" and "associating with men of questionable character."

"Mr. Richmond's answer," said Brown, "was 'Yes, Charles, I did say that. That is so.'"

Mr. Brown's testimony today was under the cross-examination of the prosecution. Most of the time of the ecclesiastical court was taken up listening to discussions and arguments on the points of the testimony. Technical objections were raised to every bit of evidence offered by one side or another. Mr. Richmond seemed to be deeply amused over the long arguments.

It was brought out that St. John's Church really received $300 left to it in a will. There had been some question about the receipt until today, when the papers showing it were produced.

Would-Be Slayer's Wounds Serious

Clarence B. Culp, 25 years old, formerly a seaman in the United States Navy, who yesterday shot his wife Anna, 25 years old, and then cut his throat, was reported today to be in a serious condition. His wife, who is in the same hospital, accused her husband last night of attempting to kill her because she refused to live with him. Physicians say Mrs. Culp has a slight chance to recover.
